About the Data in this Report

The BC Diploma, Associate Degree, and Certificate Student Outcomes Survey (DACSO) is an annual province-wide survey conducted with funding from the Ministry of Advanced Education, and participating B.C. post-secondary institutions. Former students are contacted 9 to 20 months after completing all, or a significant portion, of their program of study and asked to evaluate their educational experience and to talk about their employment outcomes, further education, and personal development. BC Stats manages the data collection, under the authority of The Statistics Act.
